2. The Unit is the body of the Company responsible for proactively and autonomously ensuring the implementation and effectiveness of the Company’s compliance system (the “Compliance System”), configured in accordance with the provisions of its Governance and Sustainability System, for which purpose it is vested with the broadest powers, budgetary autonomy and independence of action, all without prejudice to the responsibilities of other bodies and divisions of the Company.

The Compliance System is made up of all rules, formal procedures and material actions—including the Company’s crime prevention programme and its internal reporting system (described in Title VII below, the “Internal Reporting System”)—that are intended to ensure that the Company acts in accordance with ethical principles, the law and internal rules, particularly the Governance and Sustainability System, to contribute to the full realisation of the Purpose and Values of the Iberdrola Group and the corporate interest, and to prevent, manage and mitigate the risk of regulatory and ethical breaches that may be committed by the directors, professionals, or suppliers thereof within the organisation.

3. The Unit shall be governed by the provisions of these Regulations of the Compliance Unit (the “Regulations”) and the other rules forming part of the Company’s Governance and Sustainability System, as well as by any other applicable internal rules.

4. The establishment of the Unit should be understood to be without prejudice to the existence at the Group’s country subholding companies and head of business companies of their own compliance unit (collectively, the “Compliance Units of the Subsidiaries”) (as well as the existence at other companies forming part of the Group of their own compliance unit or function), which are particularly responsible for proactively and autonomously ensuring the implementation and effectiveness of the compliance system of their respective company, which includes, among other rules and procedures, their own programme for the prevention of crimes.

5. For the purposes of the provisions of these Regulations, “Group” shall mean the Company and the companies comprising it, of which the Company is the controlling company within the meaning established by law.

TITLE II. COMPOSITION

The directors of the Company may not be members of the Unit.

TITLE VII. INFORMATION MANAGEMENT PROCEDURE

Article 23. Internal Reporting System

1. The Company has implemented an Internal Reporting System in accordance with applicable legal provisions. Without prejudice to the provisions of these Regulations, the principles governing the Internal Reporting System are set out in the Compliance and Internal Reporting and Whistleblower Protection System Policy and in the Code of Ethics.

2. The Unit shall investigate any conduct that may involve the commission of any impropriety or any act that is illegal or contrary to law or the Governance and Sustainability System, particularly including any conduct that might constitute a criminal offence, a serious or very serious administrative offence, or a breach of European Union law, with implications for the Company, its contractual relationship with its suppliers, or the interests and image of the Company.

3. The Unit may commence an investigation if it is aware of facts or circumstances that might constitute an impropriety or an act from among those indicated in the preceding section, whether on its own initiative or by virtue of a grievance or report received through the Internal Reporting Channels (as defined in the following section) or by any other means.

4. The internal reporting channels activated by the Company (the "Internal Reporting Channels"), which form part of its Internal Reporting System, allow its shareholders, directors, professionals, suppliers and other third parties as determined by law to report any of the conduct referred to in section 2 above and to process the grievances or reports received in connection therewith, all without prejudice to the ability to address such grievances or reports to the Spanish Independent Whistleblower Protection Authority (Autoridad Independiente de Protección del Informante) (A.A.I.) or to any other competent institution, body or entity.

   The Internal Reporting System includes all the Internal Reporting Channels set up by the Company for the communication of grievances or reports related to such conduct by the aforementioned persons.

5. The principles, rules of conduct and guarantees established in this Title VII shall apply to the investigation files handled by the Unit, regardless of the manner in which they are commenced.

Article 24. Management of Grievances or Reports

1. The management of grievances or reports sent through the Internal Reporting Channels is the responsibility of the Unit, without prejudice to the delegation of this duty to the Director of Compliance in accordance with applicable legal provisions.

2. In order to perform such duty, the Unit and the Director of Compliance shall comply with the provisions of these Regulations, the Compliance and Internal Reporting and Whistleblower Protection System Policy, the Code of Ethics and the Policy regarding Communication and Contacts with Shareholders, Institutional Investors and Proxy Advisors.

3. In the management of grievances or reports received through the Internal Reporting Channels, the confidentiality of the identity of the whistleblower and of any third party mentioned in the grievance or report, and of the activities carried out in the management and processing thereof, as well as the protection of personal data, must be guaranteed, preventing access to the content of the investigation by personnel who are not expressly authorised to do so.

4. The Unit shall also handle and respond to all enquiries submitted to it through the Internal Reporting System that are within its purview.

Article 25. Referral of Grievances or Reports

1. Shareholders, directors, professionals, suppliers of the Company and other third parties as determined by law may report, including anonymously, any of the conduct referred to in section 2 of Article 23: (a) in writing, using the appropriate form available on the Company’s corporate website; and (b) by any other means established by the Company, which may include telephone.

   At the request of the whistleblower, the grievance or report may also be presented in a face-to-face meeting with the Unit's staff to be held no later than seven days of the request.

2. In any case, those who submit a grievance or report through the Internal Reporting Channels shall be informed, in a clear and accessible manner, of the existence of external reporting channels to the competent authorities and, where appropriate, to the institutions, bodies or entities of the European Union.

3. Verbal communications, including those made in a face-to-face meeting, by telephone or voice messaging, must be documented in one of the following ways:

   a. by recording the conversation in a secure, durable and accessible format; or

   b. through a complete and accurate transcript of the conversation prepared by the staff responsible for handling it.

   Without prejudice to the rights thereof under the legal provisions regarding the protection of personal data, the whistleblower shall be given the opportunity to verify, correct and agree to the transcription of the conversation by signing it.

4. The confidentiality of the grievance or report received shall also be guaranteed if the grievance or report is received by the Unit by a means not provided for herein or has been made to any director, professional or supplier of the Company that has immediately forwarded it to the Unit in compliance with the provisions of the Code of Ethics.
Article 26. Acceptance of Grievances or Reports for Processing

1. Once a grievance or report has been received, the Unit shall send an acknowledgement of receipt to the whistleblower within seven calendar days of receipt (unless this might jeopardise the confidentiality of the grievance or report or the whistleblower has not identified themself or has declined to receive information about the whistleblower’s communication), and shall determine whether or not to process it.

2. The fact that the whistleblower does not disclose their identity shall not bar the Unit from processing the grievance or report if it is reasonably plausible.

3. If the matter affects a company of the Group that has its own compliance body or function, or a professional performing duties thereof, the Unit shall forward the grievance or report to said body (or to the head of the compliance function) for it to proceed with the autonomous and independent evaluation and processing thereof in accordance with its own rules, which shall be consistent with the principles established in the Compliance and Internal Reporting and Whistleblower Protection System Policy and in these Regulations and with those applicable by the Unit. In the event that the matter affects more than one company of the Group, or persons from different companies thereof, the appropriate coordination measures shall be adopted by the corresponding compliance units, bodies and functions in order to handle the grievance or report in the most efficient manner.

4. The Unit shall not process any grievance or report in which the conduct complained of is clearly unfounded or implausible or is not likely to constitute an act referred to in section 2 of Article 23.

5. The decision to not accept the grievance or report for processing shall be reasoned, sufficiently documented and notified to the whistleblower within five business days of the decision, unless the whistleblower has not identified themself or has declined to be informed of the outcome of their communication.

6. For purposes of deciding whether to accept a grievance or report for processing, the Unit may request the whistleblower, if the whistleblower has identified themself and has not waived the right to receive information, to clarify or complete it by providing the documentation or data necessary to verify the existence of an act or conduct of the kind referred to in section 2 of Article 23.

7. The Audit and Risk Supervision Committee shall have direct access to the grievances or reports submitted through the Internal Reporting Channels that might have a material impact on the financial statements or internal control of the Company. To this end, the Unit shall inform said committee of the existence of the aforementioned grievances or reports and shall provide it with any documentation requested in relation to the processing of the case files.

Article 27. Processing of Case Files

1. Once a grievance or report within the purview of the Unit has been accepted for processing, the Unit shall appoint an investigating officer to carry out the investigation and process the case file, with the power to entrust these duties to an external investigating officer.

2. If the grievance or report is submitted against a member of the Unit, such member shall not participate in the processing thereof.

3. If the grievance or report concerns a member of the Board of Directors, the chair of the Unit shall inform the legal advisor of said body in order for the legal advisor to assist the chair in the processing of the case file. In these cases, to ensure independence, the investigating officer shall be a person from outside the companies of the Group.

4. The maximum period for carrying out the investigation and replying to the whistleblower shall not exceed three months from receipt of the grievance or report, except in cases of particular complexity requiring an extension of the period, in which case the period may be extended by up to a maximum of an additional three months.

5. The investigating officer shall verify the truthfulness and accuracy of the information contained in the grievance or report received, and specifically of the conduct in question, while respecting the rights of the affected parties. For such purposes, the investigating officer shall give all affected parties the opportunity to be heard, shall receive the statements of witnesses and shall carry out such proceedings as the investigating officer deems necessary.

   In particular, the investigating officer must inform those affected by the grievance or report of the acts or omissions attributed to them and of their right to be heard at any time during the investigation at the time the investigating officer initiates the investigatory activities. This information must be provided in such time and manner as is deemed appropriate to ensure the proper outcome of the investigation.

6. All professionals of the Group’s companies have the duty to faithfully cooperate in the investigation. The participation of witnesses and affected parties shall be considered strictly confidential.

7. The investigation shall be carried out pursuant to the provisions of an internal protocol approved by the Unit, all affected parties shall be informed regarding the processing of their personal data, and any other duty imposed by applicable legal provisions shall be complied with.
8. In all investigations, the rights to privacy, respectability, defence and the presumption of innocence of the persons investigated or affected shall be guaranteed, and all measures shall be taken that are required to avoid any kind of retaliation against the whistleblower upon the terms of applicable legal provisions.

In particular, as provided by applicable legal provisions, the Company undertakes to not adopt, and to ensure that the professionals of the Group do not adopt, any form of retaliation, whether direct or indirect, including threats of or attempted retaliation, against shareholders, directors, professionals, suppliers or other third parties determined by law who have reported any potential impropriety or the potential commission of any act that is illegal or contrary to law or the Governance and Sustainability System that may be investigated by the Unit, unless the grievance or report is false or such person has acted in bad faith.

Likewise, as provided by applicable legal provisions, the Company undertakes to not adopt, and to ensure that the professionals of the Group do not adopt, any form of retaliation against any natural person who, within the framework of the organisation in which the whistleblower works, assists him/her in the process, or is related to him/her, as a representative of the employees, co-worker or relative, as well as against any legal person for whom the whistleblower works or with whom the whistleblower has another type of relationship in an employment context or in which the whistleblower has a significant shareholding.

9. At any time during the proceeding, the Unit and the investigating officer may seek the advice and cooperation of the professionals of the Group’s companies, and particularly the division in charge of the finance and control functions and of the legal affairs division for purposes of determining the consequences and manner to proceed with respect to any grievance or report.

They may also seek the advice of independent third parties to assist them in any proceedings or whenever they deem it appropriate.

10. The Unit shall keep a record of the grievances or reports received through the Internal Reporting Channels and of any internal investigations to which they have given rise.

Article 28. Resolution of Case Files
1. Once the processing of the case file has been completed, the investigating officer shall forward the file together with a proposed decision to the Unit for resolution as it deems appropriate and shall notify the whistleblower thereof within the period established in section 4 of Article 27 above.

2. In the event that the decision concludes that a professional has committed an improper act or an act that is illegal or contrary to law or the Governance and Sustainability System, the Unit shall notify the division responsible for the human resources function of the Company for the application of the appropriate disciplinary measures, the adoption and content of which shall be reported to the Unit.
