

When is each type of maintenance implemented and what signs do they detect?

The analysis of data collected by sensors makes it possible to predict faults before they become evident. This is the main virtue of predictive maintenance compared to preventive maintenance, which is applied from time to time, or corrective maintenance, which is applied when the fault has already occurred.

Source: EVTECH.