

INTERVIEW

Galán tells Bloomberg he sees big opportunities in renewable energy

The chairman and CEO of Iberdrola group, Ignacio Galán, discusses the company's clean energy investments with Bloomberg's Haslinda Amin at the World Economic Forum's annual meeting in Davos. The main ideas he has highlighted are the following:

- Renewables are now the most competitive form of energy that also help to stimulate the economy and support jobs.
- New investments in wind and solar projects in Australia are discussed.

