INFORMATIVE RELEASE

Iberdrola has been sponsoring the “lionesses” - the National Senior Women’s Rugby Team - since October. Under the terms of this agreement, it has extended its support for the sport with the oval ball and is now the official sponsor of the National Women’s Competition.

This means that what used to be called the Honorary Women’s Division League will now be called the Iberdrola Honorary Division. It will also have a new logo.

INFORMATIVE RELEASE

Speaking on behalf of the Spanish Rugby Federation, Alfonso Feijoo said he was pleased to welcome this new sponsor, which shares the values that rugby represents, such as teamwork, solidarity, integrity, respect, passion and commitment.

The Federation believes that the drive and energy of Iberdrola, which have already helped the lionesses become European champions and qualify for the World Cup in Ireland in 2016, will give the players in the Honorary Division the recognition and importance they deserve,
