

SHAPES – Kate Darling

“You’ve probably, at some point, seen some headlines about robots taking all the jobs. Well, robots don’t take jobs, human decisions do. And I believe we desperately need to reframe our thinking on robotics and artificial intelligence as human replacements, in order to see that we have choices in how we design, build and integrate this technology. And in order to see the true potential of robotics and AI, which is to be a partner in what we’re trying to achieve”.